*Comprehensive services include all services a victim may need, including but not limited to local/community outreach, immigration and refugee services, legal services, comprehensive health and social services, intensive case management, mental health services, emergency housing, language services, counseling, advocacy, crisis intervention, referral, consultations, assessments, medical services, education, food and shelter, employment services, ESL classes, assistance with permanent housing, community orientation, and intervention.

**Mobile Crisis Response Teams (MCRT's) are deployed during a trafficking emergency to help secure comprehensive services and train service providers in areas not prepared in advance.

***USCCB has an "anytime, anywhere" grant. Through this, they have agreed to find services for victims identified in areas without pre-established service collaboratives.
